Based on real-life events, Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Donald Margulies tells the story of a Victorian gentleman whose past comes to life on stage like a theatrical pop-up book. Dangling a line between truth and believability, Shipwrecked! invites our audience to take back the power to imagine, a gift that the magic of live theater can offer. Tonight, we’re in a Victorian theater, which is a reflection of mast ships: a theater’s backstage architecture, rigging system, and technical terms come from nineteenth century ships and the sailors who worked on both. Late Victorian England’s technological and scientific advancements offered an increasing curiosity about the world, and a need for power. This is why it is not hard to explain England’s blinded fascination with travel to foreign lands, meeting and dominating exotic cultures, and seeking out adventure. Victorian troupes were popular at this time, performing comedies and melodramas with skits, songs, and acrobatics. They might tour the country performing in rented theaters for single nights, hence the need for simple stage craft. Music accompaniment and sound effects were live and performed by the actors themselves. These are some of the theatrical elements of this production we hope will transport you to the mechanical Victorian Era and a simpler time of telling stories.

The Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival 49®, part of the Rubenstein Arts Access Program, is generously funded by David and Alice Rubenstein.

Special thanks to The Harold and Mimi Steinberg Charitable Trust for supporting the John F. Kennedy Center of the Performing Arts' Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival.

Additional support is provided by The Honorable Stuart Bernstein and Wilma E. Bernstein; the Blanche and Irving Laurie Foundation; the Dr. Gerald and Paula McNichols Foundation; Beatrice and Anthony Welters and the AnBryce Foundation.

Kennedy Center education and related artistic programming is made possible through the generosity of the National Committee for the Performing Arts and the President’s Advisory Committee on the Arts.

This production is entered in the Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival (KCACTF). The aims of this national theater education program are to identify and promote quality in college-level theater production. To this end, each production entered is eligible for a response by a regional KCACTF representative, and selected students and faculty are invited to participate in KCACTF programs involving scholarships, internships, grants and awards for actors, directors, dramaturgs, playwrights, designers, stage managers and critics at both the regional and national levels.

Productions entered on the Participating level are eligible for invitation to the KCACTF regional festival and may also be considered for national awards recognizing outstanding achievement in production, design, direction and performance.

Last year more than 1,300 productions were entered in the KCACTF involving more than 200,000 students nationwide. By entering this production, our theater department is sharing in the KCACTF goals to recognize, reward, and celebrate the exemplary work produced in college and university theaters across the nation.
