A NOTE FROM THE PRODUCERS

Welcome to our third annual New Works Festival, featuring original works written and directed by Department of Drama students. For a playwright, the opportunity to work collaboratively with directors, actors, designers, and crew to bring one of their works to life is often a transformative experience. The playwright’s initial work is done in solitude; but this work remains by definition unfinished. As a playwright friend once told me: the playwright doesn’t write text; the playwright writes behavior for actors and environment for designers. So without the work of directors, actors, designers, stage managers, and technicians the playwright’s work doesn’t really exist.

Working with a playwright is an important skill for a director to develop, and this festival provides the opportunity for two directors to get valuable feedback on how their choices are measuring up to the playwright’s expectations.

In addition, Jessica Harris has created a devised piece where she’s essentially combined the work of a playwright and director. Devising can describe a number of approaches to creating new work in which the director has direct input on the creation of the play itself. This festival thus provided student directors with the opportunity for three different approaches to the creation of new works including improvisation and experimentation with both form and content.

For the playwrights, directors, actors, designers, and crew the final component in the creation of their new work is you. Thank you for joining us and playing the essential role of the audience for the New Works Festival. Your presence here is a valuable part of the artistic process, and we thank you for it.

Doug Grissom and Dave Dalton, co-producers

The New Works Festival is co-sponsored by the Department of Drama and by an Arts Enhancement Grant from the Office of the Provost and the Vice Provost for the Arts.

WHO’S WHO IN They’re Still Friends

Savannah Maive (3rd Year Drama) The Complete Works of William Shakespeare (Abridged) (Assistant Director, Live Arts)

Savannah Hard is a fourth year drama major at the University of Virginia. She enjoys playwriting, preforming, and impromptu dance parties. Savannah is fortunate enough that one of her one-act plays, White Zinfandel, was performed last year at the New Works Festival 2018. She discovered her love for playwriting in her second year in Doug Grissom’s class. He first encouraged her to develop her short piece Eggs which was performed in the music library exposition. On top of playwriting, she has focused on singing and acting, preforming in Company as Joanne (Spectrum Theatre) and #46 in The Wolves (UVA Drama). She has also served backstage as an assistant stage manager in Urinetown and sound designer for Tartuffe. Lastly, she has loved her time with Virginia Players, the student wing of the department. She hopes to pursue playwriting and theatre education post graduation.

WHO'S WHO IN THE NEW WORKS FESTIVAL

Julie Briski (2nd year M.F.A. Lighting Design) The Wolves, Canaan, New Works Festival 2018, Fall Dance 2017, Spring Dance 2018 (UVA Drama)

Dave Dalton (Assistant Professor, Acting & Directing): Dave is a director and adaptor of classic texts. His pro-wrestling-inspired adaptation of Wagner’s Ring Cycle operas was selected a New York Times Critics’ Pick, and his playful adaptation of Gilbert and Sullivan’s H.M.S. Pinafore was nominated for a Drama Desk Award for Outstanding Revival of a Musical. His work has been seen in New York at The Bushwick Starr, Incubator Arts Project, PS 122, and The Duke on 42nd Street. He has also directed productions at universities throughout the northeast including University of Connecticut, Brooklyn College, Barnard College, and Johns Hopkins University. Dave recently directed Blood Wedding and the emo rock musical Bloody Bloody Andrew Jackson at UVA Drama. He has a M.F.A. in Directing from Columbia University and is a member of the Stage Directors and Choreographers Society.

Doug Grissom is an Associate Professor of the Department of Drama and the head of the playwriting program. His plays have been produced at many venues around the country, and Deep Down and Elvis People were produced Off-Broadway and subsequently performed at various regional theatres. His educational theatre piece on acquaintance rape, But I Said No (co-written with Margaret Baldwin), has toured extensively on college campuses around the country. Recent directing credits at UVA include The New Works Festival (2017), The Arctic Circle (with a recipe for Swedish Pancakes), The Rimers of Eldritch and *Museum.

The Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival 51®, part of the Rubenstein Arts Access Program, is generously funded by David M. Rubenstein.

Special thanks to The Harold and Mimi Steinberg Charitable Trust for supporting the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts’ Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival.

Additional support is provided by The Honorable Stuart Bernstein and Wilma E. Bernstein; the Dr. Gerald and Paula McNichols Foundation; and Beatrice and Anthony Welters and the AnBryce Foundation.

Kennedy Center education and related artistic programming is made possible through the generosity of the National Committee for the Performing Arts and the President’s Advisory Committee on the Arts.

This production is entered in the Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival (KCACTF). The aims of this national theater education program are to identify and promote quality in college-level theater production. To this end, each production entered is eligible for a response by a regional KCACTF representative, and selected students and faculty are invited to participate in KCACTF programs involving scholarships, internships, grants and awards for actors, directors, dramaturgs, playwrights, designers, stage managers and critics at both the regional and national levels.

Productions entered on the Participating level are eligible for invitation to the KCACTF regional festival and may also be considered for national awards recognizing outstanding achievement in production, design, direction and performance.

Last year more than 1,300 productions were entered in the KCACTF involving more than 200,000 students nationwide. By entering this production, our theater department is sharing in the KCACTF goals to recognize, reward, and celebrate the exemplary work produced in college and university theaters across the nation.
